Squeeze, Crying In My Sleep

(Difford/Tilbrook)

Breaking up Is breaking my heart Is showing me the door And if I get it open I'll discover that there's much more to life than this As I hit the wall with the full force of my fist I concede this time to defeat I keep crying in my sleep Dear boy, poor boy I keep crying in my sleep

Breaking up Is making me see Inside myself again And if I can keep looking Inside then I might change the things that I fear It keeps my heart awake and stops the tears. My nights are incomplete I keep crying in my sleep

The sound of her voice The sound of her words I hear every breath Each whisper is heard But it's so hard now Now she is gone Everything I did I did wrong I keep crying in my sleep

And if I turn full circle Perhaps I'll see that the road ahead is clear When the world that's on my shoulder disappears. At night the footsteps creak I keep crying in my sleep
