

Squirrel Nut Zippers, My Evergreen

Summer smiles but passes on
Autumn sings her lonely song
The robin waits for Spring
But what will waiting bring
Winter spreads her blanket down
White and flawless on the ground
The flowers can't be seen
But you're my evergreen
Cold north wind has come around
Fragile ones stay underground
But there is one who thrives
Despite the chilling sky
The one I love is constant, though
Seasons come and seasons go
She will abide with me
My darling evergreen
The one I love is constant, though
Seasons come and seasons go
She will abide with me
My darling evergreen
