

SR-71, Blood & Bourbon

All the bricks caved in smashed the mouths of the weak
All the bricks caved in to crush what we tend to seek

I've found my last temptation turns into my last frustration

I refuse to crawl with my back against the wall
I'm never gonna fall into the trap you left for me

All the bricks caved in Everything's torn down
All the bricks caved in Our buildings burned to the ground

I've found my last temptation
Gasoline, God, guns and ostentation

I refuse to crawl with my back against the wall
I'm never gonna fall into the trap you left for me

Day after day night after night
the Sweet Mother Mary looks for the light
Day after day
she's up on the cross the Father, the Son, the souls that she lost
In this house of seven
we paint the walls
with splattered blood and bourbon screams down the halls
In this house of seven
we paint the walls

We paint the walls...

I refuse to crawl with my back against the wall
I'm never gonna fall into the trap you left for me

I refuse to crawl with my back against the wall
I'm never gonna fall into the trap you left for me

In this house of seven
we paint the walls