SR-71, Mr Right

Alls shes askin is for a little more time to walk away from his anger and leave the bruises behind but she won't talk about it shes made up her mind when the front door shut behind her she whispers " give me a sign". And feels the power of the engines as she climbs to 65 and every piston sounds like freedom and every white line says goodbye and the truth in his lies when the last scar finally fades she'll have a new life. Say goodbye to mr right lock the door, turn out the light pack your bags, leave this trap run away, dont look back see another day in each new sun cuz your lfie has just begun. You'll see another day in each new sun' cuz your life has just begun. She can stil feel the touch of his hand not just the violence, but the warmth of her man. Yea it was the first night she never felt so alive it was the first night she never felt so alive it was the first time i've ever seen her smile.