Stabilizers, You Pull Me Down

Every day - I wake up out of breath Things you said - can't be forgotten yet So maybe you were right - maybe I've been swept away As this rising tide is fed by another wave - another wave

You pull me down - as I begin to drown You pull me down You pull me down - until I can't be found You pull me down

I can't run away - I've got no place to go So I look inside - and I see you there alone If you could ride along - with all my highs and lows You might find a man - you thought you'd never know You never know
