

Staggered Crossing, Old Man Sittin' By The Fire

Looking back on things done wrong they seems to always hold you back
And judging from the stress in our lives
We could use just a little bit of slack

And now the chauffer blinks he makes no sense
Riding a Harley horse
Saving his love for a Saturday night
Saving it up for some whores

Looking back on things that he's done wrong

There's and old man sitting by the fire
It gets him higher than what he's been before
There's and old man sitting by the fire
It gets him higher than what he's been before

Reflecting on my past regrets
And looking up at down
Standing against the wall with my shoulders back honey
Standing before shakey ground
The sun don't shine when you ain't feeling fine
You better get yourself some rope
Or save all your love for Saturday night
Saving it up for some coke