

Stan Mi, Chasing butterflies wieghtless and faightless as I wait for something more why you had it sotre for I and I want to, but it feels like what we held so close has disappeared, it's last and gone guess I had to try and the sunlight and the darkness seems to disappear and when you not near I'll be chasing butterflies like the sunlight in your eyes it serves me right to try to love a little more, then what i had in store I guess you'll never know and today I've come to say I the river's deep and wide and times we hace to hide so I I want to but it feels like what we held so close has disappeared it's lost and gone I guess I had to try these days and night

I'll be chasing butterflies like the sunlight in your eyes it serves me right to try
to love a little more, then what i had in store
I guess you'll never know