

Star Salzman, Goodbye

In the end I know I'll find a way
To come back to you from so far away.
And when the sunset frames you
And dreams are all I have left,
Don't look back, I don't want to hear you say
Goodbye, goodbye.

I promise not to blame you.
I understand why you're gone.
I didn't expect to keep you,
And be the only one.
Goodbye, goodbye.

And when the day starts growing longer, come on by.
And even when you're old and gray, and no one's by your side,
You have a home beside me, wherever your heart may lie.
So don't look back, I don't want to hear you say
Goodbye, goodbye, goodbye.

Summer seemed like such a long way off
I tried to tell you but I couldn't bear.
Goodbye.
