

Star Salzman, No More

I've waited a long long time.
I've looked for her far and wide.
The only thing left in her eyes
Is you.

Now she don't smile at me no more
And she don't laugh with me no more.
She says she's living in a dream;
Wake up and see that I'm already there awake.

Again, you try to pretend
That I'm not the one;
The one to make things right.
Look over the side,
I'm standing on the iceberg waiting for you to collide.

Now she don't smile at me no more
And she don't laugh with me no more.
She says she's living in a dream;
Wake up and see that I'm already there awake.

I'm sorry, I know you say I apologize too much, too much.
Tomorrow don't worry, I'm planning to move on by then, by then, by then.
I won't say goodbye, or any synonym I can think of at this time.

Now she don't smile at me no more
And she don't laugh with me no more.
She says she's living in a dream;
Wake up and see that I'm already there;
Wake up and see that I'm already there awake.
Awake.
