

Starflyer 59, Lifeguard

I've never been there
So when I see that look in your eyes
I'm not a lifeguard, with a towel that dries
Who fixes a life
So when there's nightmares
And the stakes have gotten too high, over reactions
Somebody's gonna know who's paying the price

In my moments of crisis
Could I get some relief
Could I get a new license
Where I've only dreamed

I'm not a pinwheel
Or a light turning on in your mind
I've realized
I'm not the towel that dries
Or fixes a life
So when there's problems
And the stakes have gotten too high
You're out of line
Somebody's gonna know who's paying the price
