

Staring Back, Odds Against

Nothing left for me to say, nowhere left for me to hide
I check myself before I stumble into one more pathetic situation
Find myself behind a locked door
Losing time to figure out just what I left behind Lost inside myself because
Nothings ever good enough for me
You wont change anything so why cant I see the truth again?