

Staring Back, The Situation Will Come On Line

Its so confusing when theres nothing left to say to her
My thoughts come out of nowhere
And go spinning down inside this blur
Now Ive found my place
So easy to forget not this time
Now Im in your face asking you to be mine
I try to figure out what undermines my will to be
But when I see your face this weight falls off my shoulder and Im free
To you and now
Im asking you to come with me
You dont know just how much this means
Its all for you