

Stars Are Falling, The Morning Brought The End

Nothing is the same but do you care.

Nothing lasts ever I need to see your face before I go, just one more time.

The sky turns red as I search the stars for your name.

I'm losing hope, but I'll wait for you to remember me.

Autumn leaves fall faster, when the sunlight fades away.

Come back to me and you'll see once again.

I watch the moons at night trying to remember I'm here longing for you, waiting for you reaching for you in my last moments.