

Stars Hide Fire, Broken

Falling to pieces

I can't even feel these scars at the top of my heart

I've carved out my addictions, to your deceptions. I've tried

You decide what's right for the both of us

Hell, i have no say at all

With your righteous explanations, turn your back and watch me fall

Forget these nights

Our heated fights are over

These broken ties need mending now

I always did right by you

Wanted us to survive

Our wounded lives have ended now

These cindered pictures

Keep leaving me speechless, yet with words on the tip of my tongue

I've fallen out of windows, shattered glass breaks my hard fall

You decide what's right for the both of us

Hell, i have no say at all

With your righteous explanations, you turn your back and walk away

With a hole in my lungs I breath air, as I recall