

Stars Hide Fire, Transmission

this signal's heading nowhere fast. there's intermission in the sound, it's fading in and out it breaks down
it starts back up this transmission's been shorting out today, i stand here in front of you. save me, from making mistakes we can't help to make.

and this system's keeps ears on lockdown keeps them unconscious to the sound a deafening drown
it breaks up
it falls apart this engine stops and idles out and these days have fallen out of sequences which these frequencies mute out and as you live in the comfort of plush couches and living rooms ask yourself why everything has fallen apart this transmission is being broadcast to all those who accept it's sound accept our doubts can i fade it out can i numb these thoughts right now and this system's falling and i'm on overload and these day are numbered with feedback reigning sounds it's fall apart