

Status Quo, She Knew Too Much

She walked on by, she caught my eye
She changed tack, decided to stay a while
We built our home, we lived alone
The old ghost was following her around

She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good
She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good

She knew, she knew, she knew
Too much, too much
She knew, she knew, she knew
Too much for her own good

We cruised along loves broken song
For I knew then that something was wrong with her
Sure enough turned bad all that we had
It was man mean and swallowed her up again

She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good
She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good
She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good

She knew, she knew, she knew
Too much, too much
She knew, she knew, she knew
Too much for her own good

Never again (???) a fall for her
Never again would she laugh, would she cry
Love falls apart, love breaks your heart
We are here now but never around for long

She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good
She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good
She knew too much, she knew too much
She knew too much, too much for her own good

She knew, she knew, she knew
Too much, too much
She knew, she knew, she knew
Too much for her own good
