

Steel Prophet, The Revenant

Rising back from the depths insane are the cries from his past running away from the truth the anguish he flees closes fast searching the evil unleashed from rage that his torment amassed relentless his quest for revenge from his grave death's sentence is passed the ghosts of a time weep for vengeance long dead still the dreams haven't ceased how law could preside such injustice now the revenant's wrath is released stolen before it was time all the dreams that he worked to create ravaged so mercilessly he seeks atonement for ill gotten fate striking a bargain with hell so the crime done to him is repaid stricken the slayers eternal roaming life in the guise of a shade the price his soul lost forever so the curse of undead can be placed with the revenant's wrath placed upon them he can rest for he's suffrage's erased