

Steel Prophet, Your Failure Inscribed In Stone

Science seeks to ascend to god's throne by playing their trade
Creating life on their own
As consciousness' state's forever at hand
They're doomed to wander a no mans land

They seek to become master alone
The key they reveal will only be soul
Smash all your atoms and still you will find
You can't instill life of a real kind

Your failure inscribed in stone
And when you wander through your experiments
You'll see a piece alludes your memory

This puzzle of life creates the stern brow
So active and coaxing the here and the now

Through the dream I saw my own fate on my stone
I could read the date I saw the beginning of life
And learned the secret made in my life