Stephen Stills, 50/50

Much to my dismay When I wake up in the morning No one by my side Nowhere left to hide

I thought
Music was enough
I could fill the empty spaces
Wandering the halls
Bouncing off the walls

Too High to hear the song Or Recall the deeper meaning There is but to seek redress From is wretched loneliness With

Love That's 50/50 Or a hundred at a time Love That's 50/50 With both of us this time

I can hear my love And she wouldn't try to change me She knows that I will try to be The best of me that I can be

And that is change enough I could lose myself tryin' to please her And after all was said and done She might not like what I'd become

So listen to your love
If you let it
It will tell you
You got to try again, again
Find your lover, confidant and

Friend
That's 50/50
Or a hundred at a time
Love love love love
That's 50/50
With both of us this time

Listen to your love It will sing to you tomorrow Every day's new melody Needs a different harmony

So listen to the song And the part that never changes The rhythm and the symmetry Of love's collected poetry

Listen close enough Hear the whispers of forever What we have ourselves become One and one is still one Love That's 50/50 Or a hundred at a time Love love love That's 50/50 With both of us this time

Love love That's 50/50 Or a hundred at a time Love love love That's 50/50 With both of us this time
