Steve Earle, Sometimes She Forgets

If you see her out tonight And she tells you it's just the lights That bring her here and not her loneliness That's what she says but sometimes she forgets If she tells you she don't need a man She's had all the comfort she can stand You'd best believe every word she says But don't give up 'cause sometimes she forgets Sometimes she forgets that not too long ago she swore She wasn't gonna let her heart be broken anymore So now she keeps it locked away It grows colder every day And it won't warm to any man's caress That's what she says but sometimes she forgets Sometimes she forgets that not too long ago she swore She wasn't gonna let her heart be broken anymore Hey now don't give up 'cause sometimes she forgets
