

Steve Harley, NEW-FASHIONED WAY

Roll away the stone, let me breathe again she waves her hand with a touch of style
He can't believe it's about to end
Ah, but she knows the words of the night
Are a promisese on trial
She say's she's never been alone, that she's Never had a lover's kiss
Stand up and give account of yourself,
He tells her
Nothing's gonna come of this
They're talking in the dark
They're kissing by the light of the moon
They're loving in the new-fashioned way
From the begining all she wanted was a boy to trust
She danced alone with a hungry heart
She played around like she thought she must
But soon her hero was ther so her life could start
Virgin hopes begin to fit in place
This is everything they've waited for nobody's gonna say a word outta place
This is magic through an open door
They're talking in the dark
They're kissing by the light of the moon
They're loving in the new-fashioned way
