

Steve Lukather, Tears Of My Own Shame

Queen of hearts and sister vanity took me by the hand to show me royalty in this castle so many things to see and all I could become, a knight wasted away I said ooh ooh...it's not any thing

Did to me it's not what you made me feel I did to you I cry, angry that I played the fool for these are the tears of my own shame even just a page I never thought to read and the writing on the wall became a tapestry the blues I felt , the reds they blinded me and all the greens only taught me jealousy

(repeat chorus)

and I am not what I care to be and she is not what I came to see and like some shakespearean tragedy that in the end I have to question...finally

(repeat chorus)
