

Stick To Your Guns, Interlude

I would never make a song that everyone agreed with.
Because, how do you do that?
You know, you do that by making songs that don't say anything.
And if no one's challenged in any way possible there's No way you can be misinterpreted and there's No way anyone can build up enough emotions to react