

Stillwater, All I Can Remember when Terri ran away I saw her picture in the window in a downtown shopping mall it's funny how I never know her real name she wasn't very old, wasn't very tall wasn't very proud of her blonde-eyed, jet-black hair she never could seem to try to fit in anywhere and I don't know trouble at home

there were always trouble at home and I guess I always knew when suddenly my mind races back to a dozen Sunday summer mornings when I saw her there all alone outside the main house I never had the time something always on my mind I don't know what it was but it was spiritual or maybe I just didn't want to feel her pain and all I can remember Jesus said unto the least of these do unto me

and all I can remember
who are the least of these

and all she really wanted was just one friend in a long long list of acquaintances people she knew when the judgement comes down it'll be on me and you trouble at home
there was always trouble at home

oh all I can reall I can remember
and all I can remember Jesus said unto the least of these
