

Stone Sour, The Day I Let Go

What a waste of life this is, every altercation I permit is Like a quiet sigh
From a man resigned to a place that was never his
And the hours are long, even in a world where I belong
Every second stays, every minute counts against my sentence

I Fall I had to let you go

What I tried to accomplish died every offer of faith I had
To fight and a dream unfolds
The moon is cold because the sun left early
And the days go by, even when my conscience just wont try
Every week decays, every month is rotten -
I AM FORGOTTEN

I fall I had to let you go
I fall my mind is all I know
I fall the table turns to dust
I fall today, I let go of my trust

What a waste of time I am, every ounce of life is Just dead flesh
I cant forget, but then again you cant let me remember
When I try to speak, every word I say comes out so bleak
I dont want this, I dont want you
But I DONT WANT ANYONE
I dont want anyone

I fall I had to let you go
I fall my mind is all I know
I fall the table turns to dust
I fall today, I let go of my trust
I let go of my trust