

Stonebridge, Sunrise In Eden

Along the banks of astral silence the honey rivers flow time seems standing still before my eyes the velvet sound of the ocean waves white sand underneath in the land of eternity the old bridge tells a story of long gone centuries and the garden of a king far away the palms around they whisper the sacred holy rhymes to keep legends alive endless the night, awaiting the morning awakened by a dream the moon touches the sky while a light catches my eye, Im beholding the stars seem to shine more intensive than ever enlighting the path in the dark and then the horizon is visible for me Im breathing
(chorus)
the heartbeat of the paradise to feel sunrise in eden
and aurora greets the day wishing afterglow away to let the magic kingdom shine in light an endless flow in elysian fields
sunrise in eden
and Im holding on once more to the moments I long for to the ageless beauty of a world that sleeps