

Stonewall Jackson, Angry Words

It hurts down deep when angry words are spoken
Because of this countless tears are shed
Much too often tender hearts are broken
When hasty thoughtless angry words are said
As you know I stormed out of the house again this mornin'
I slammed the door and didn't even take your usual kiss
Well angry words can make us do things without a warnin'
I could hardly wait to get back home to tell you this
First of all you're the reason for my living
You've stuck with me when things were at their worst
We've got the home the kids and the joy they're giving
But over all you always will come first
We found out a long ago this life's no paradise
We're not angels or else we'd all have wings
Above all angry words I hope you realize that I love you if that means anything
