

Stonewall Jackson, If Heartaches Were Wine

If hurt was a tavern then I'd have a home
Somewhere to miss you since you've been gone
If pain was a bottle and tears were neon signs
If heartaches were wine I'd stay drunk all the time
If blue was an avenue then I've walked it so many times
Trying hard to forget you but you're still on my mind
If worries were this table and lonesome was worth a dime
If heartaches were wine I'd be drunk all the time
[guitar - steel]
If heartaches were wine I would never be sober
I'd always be too drunk to know that our love is over
If teardrops were whiskey then I'd stay stone blind
If heartaches were wine I'd be drunk all the time
If heartaches were wine I'd be drunk all the time
