

Story Of The Year, In Her Bedroom

We both want the world but we both know that this gets old if i could open up my chest then maybe i could find a way to give you just a little piece of my heart sometimes i would rather cut your lips right off your face than kiss them goodnight but then, sometimes you can make a room feel perfect when you try because a mouth full of lies will leave a sour taste that cuts just like a knife as it slides down your throat yeah you give up the world and fall to your knees to show me that you care we could believe in windows but behind the broken glass are fairy tales in her bedroom i am throwing pieces of what i wish i could be yeah knowing that someday in her bedroom she will know yeah

here we go

if i could find your eyes from across the room we have to try not to throw away this happiness if the air explodes between us then this is more than just a feeling today i woke up missing you another day goes by alone we could believe in windows but behind the broken glass are fairy tales

in her bedroom i am throwing pieces of what i wish i could be yeah
knowing that someday in her bedroom she will know yeah
here we go

not every movie has a happy ending but frame by frame
i learn to love you
when i see flowers bloom in your footsteps.

i learn to love you
i learn to love you
frame by frame
here we go

in her bedroom i am throwing pieces of what i wish i could be yeah knowing that someday in her bedroom she will, in her bedroom i am throwing pieces of what i wish i could be yeah
here we go