

Story Of The Year, So Far So Good

never for one single second thought that I would find myself at the beginning but at the end am I wasting time pictures fading while I sing this song a million times a million times

all that I promised to myself another word misplaced tonight all that I'm holding in why am I holding in

so far but so good
a picture's worth a thousand words
so far but so good
a picture's worth a thousand words

forever thriving on a feeling no tomorrow without a day of growing older I can defend the bridge I burn this time at constant odds with the hope that keeps me alive keeps me alive

all that I promised to myself
another word misplaced tonight
all that I'm holding in
why am I holding in