

Stretch Arm Strong, All We've Lost

All we've lost is so much more
I can't believe all the things I see
So many people strung out on vanity
A lust for something more, so much more than we're given
Now it's too late, we've made our mistakes
Can't we change the way we're living?
I don't know why, we try and try
To be something more that we are not
No matter how we lie we'll never mask what's inside
Will you be left standing? Can you carry on this charade?
It's all we've lost.
