

Stretch Arm Strong, (This May Be In Fact) As Good

just like your time, it's gone, in a flash, in a flash a mayfly's desire for an hour of life if you want protection, you won't find it here no one makes it out alive running after illusion, spending precious time wasting precious time misinterpret salvation with your reason and your rhyme so concerned about the outside world think this is taking too long the feeling's gone unaware of the consequences and our hatreds carry on never a thought, our delusions, our confusion, and our actions feel so wrong you tried so hard to find your safety net but all you found was lies and lost regret standing still, you fight the will that comes from deep inside yourself inside yourself

my stone to push, your cross to bear this struggle is endless and it gets us nowhere your stone to push, my cross to bear this struggle is endless and it gets us nowhere

the feeling's gone unaware of the consequences and our hatreds carry on
never a thought, our delusions, our confusion, and our actions feel so wrong
the feeling's gone unaware of the consequences and our hatreds carry on
never a thought, our delusions, our confusion, and our actions feel so wrong