

Stretch Arm Strong, We Bleed

fear this has taken over and transformed your eyes forced fed an avil doctrine.
the masses have been hypnotized.
lines have been drawn, sides have been taken.
will we ever understand the mistakes that we're making?

open up and free your mind.
you never know what you might find.
you and me we're made of blood.
color is the only difference.
race, religion, sex, and creed we're all the same when we bleed (when we bleed)
race, religion, sex, and creed we're all the same
i want to open your veins to see if your blood is real.

turn back history.
forget the lies they taught.
make a plan for tomorrow.
end this suffering and sorrow.
accept the risk, endure the storm, take a chance while it's yours to watch the kids walk hand in hand despite the color of their skin.

you never know what you might find.
color is the only difference.
race, religion, sex, and creed we're all the same when we bleed (when we bleed)
race, religion, sex, and creed we're all the same
i want to open your veins to see if your blood is real.

more than ever!
we've got to stand together!
push back insecurity!
make a stand for equality now!
we've got to make a stand right now!

make a stand, equality!
make a stand!
