Stretch Armstrong, Set Free

i want to liberate you i want to set you free i want to bare your burden why won't you let me?
is it so hard to let me in?
it takes a spark for the fire to begin i will always love you i will stand by your side a special place in my herat is where you'll reside please don't close your eyes there are so many lies please don't close your ears there are so many fears no one made you step out of line it's just a gradual digression over time choking and gasping for a breath of hope reaching for somethign to cling to at the end of your rope wipe the tears from your face you and i will win this race this is my promise to you frustration sets in when will the healing begin?
set free
