Sum 41, King Of Contradiction

I've dethroned the king of contradiction Or were you just a jester all along a simple pawn Don't you know you can't count your tears like your money Running down like rain in the drain

You don't need to pray for me'cause I'm not the one to blame I can't wait to see you going down in flames How could it be know not what we've became you lost the human race

I hope you burn like a cigarette in ashes as your head comes down and crashes your throat pours blood from slashes and I hope you never forget like a tattoo of regret this time, this time

You don't need to pray for me cause I'm not the one to blame I can't wait to see you going down in flames how could it be know not what we've became you lost the human race

Now you're replaced, now Nice to know you, now Your time is up so just drop dead