

Sunny Day Real Estate, Two Promises

long days caught in his room trapped in the gloom of the dying light his heart pleads through the wounds that he bleeds the wounds he never can close wrong way mind in a haze never know what he could do he thinks 'I gave her my heart she tasted my soul now she's gone again' he thinks 'I gave her my heart she tasked my blood
now she's gone again'
why did you leave me here?
how could you lead me down here?
he can't decide where to go then two promises one imperfect walls he's building keep on crumbling down walls are falling try to keep them sound long days he thinks the time will be soon pacing his room with his dark thoughts his heart breaks at the road ge must take the road that will lead to the end wrong way he thinks it's right for release he'll never know peace in his lifetime
he thinks 'I gave her my heart she tasted my soul
now she's gone again'
he thinks 'I gave her my blood she tasted my soul
now she's gone again'
he can't decide where to go then
two promises one imperfect
walls he's building keep on crumbling down wall's have fallen now there is no sound