Sunrise Avenue, Heal Me

This is something I can't hide Can't throw it away This is something I can't fake They know you're away They know how to break me They know you're far away

If this sadness takes its place I'll free the space it needs I'm hiding in the place Where we share the days Where we share the nights Go through dark and light

Could you believe I'm waiting for someone Could you believe I'm holding the night with my hands Alone in the night on my own I feel the pain inside me Only you can heal me

This is something I can't take I feel so lame
There is nothing in my mind
But you all the way
You rule every moment
You're the air around me

Love's a lonely road sometimes I keep moving on Towards the moment you'll be mine A long way to go To where we belong We'll be there before long

Could you believe I'm waiting for someone Could you believe I'm holding the night with my hands Alone in the night on my own I feel the pain inside me Only you can heal me

By sharing this moonlight And the tears in my midnight cry I need to hear you breathe by Me in the night, deep in the night
