

Supersystem, Born Into The World

I was born into the world in a hospital called ABC.

I was born into the world a friend to every falcon shark and bee.

I lived above a candy store behind a massive marble door.

I was born into the world in a city with volcanoes in the sky.

I was born into the world a friend to every lion snake and fly.

I lived above a flower store behind a massive iron door in a bright cold room where the sun would flood right in.

I was born into the world and my mother made a vow to me:

You were born into the world to be friend to every eagle bear and flea.

I lived above a jewelry store behind a massive plate glass door in a bright cold room where the rain would flood right in.
