

Sure Conviction, Forevermore

(M.

Liffengren/P. Liffengren)

Time won't stand still, the clock is ticking

You can never go back to your past

The future's calling as the day is drawing

Today could be your last

The sound rings clear, some are filled with fear

As rumors and wars are heard

Will you be complete, can you truly see,

Through a glass, your vision's not clear

Forevermore's not only a day

Eternity is just a breath away

The path you choose is yours to make

Just remember it's your life at stake

Death's often spoken and your life is broken

You're looking for something new

Turn to the One who knows your name

He's been waiting for you

Have you made a choice for that still small voice

That beckons deep within your soul

Will you be crying in the depths of the earth

Or will you be made whole

The beat goes on, on and on

You can never go back to your past

The beat goes on, on and on

You can never go back to your past