

Suzy Bogguss, Traveling Light

I'm pulling my suitcase down, packing the things I need
Just a change of clothes and a porcelain rose you once gave to me
Leaving the guilt behind I'm not gonna take the blame
Got too far to go to be carrying stones when I roll away.

I'm traveling light, no baggage this time
And no bitter memories weighing on my mind,
I'm facing the wind and I'm ready to fly
Anywhere my heart takes me tonight, I'm traveling light.

It might take another town, it might take a year or two
But I'll find what I lost and I'll have what I thought I had with you
It could be an uphill climb or maybe a winding road
All I really know is for me there's only one way to go.

I'm traveling light no baggage this time
And no bitter memories weighing on my mind
I'm facing the wind and I'm ready to fly
Anywhere my heart takes me tonight I'm traveling light.

I'm facing the wind and I'm ready to fly
Anywhere my heart takes me tonight
I'm traveling light.
I'm traveling light.
I'm traveling light.
I'm traveling light...
