

Swing Out Sister, Ordinary People

(Swing Out Sister)

Love's got you down

Don't be around

Here I am...?

Now You're Not Here

Love was young

We saw beyond a sky that had no limits

Much higher than the highest star

Beyond the furthest planet

We thought that we could change the world

And everything in it

But time ran out of endless hours

Gave into doubt, were we just playing an endless game

That no one ever wins

If I could run away

Hide away

Forget the way feel

But your memory keeps haunting me

Convincing me it's real

Now you're not here

Now you're not here

Love and hate

Left up to fate

A life we took for granted

We couldn't stop our running from the things we always wanted

No long goodbyes

No tears to cry

And nothing to believe in

But now you're gone

We'll never know a love that's grown

Time took away

All that it gave to the two of us

If I could run away

Hide away

Forget the way I feel

But your memory keeps haunting me

Convincing me it's real

Now you're not here

Now you're not here

When our hearts were young and nights were long

We'd let the morning sun kiss our eyes open

Precious dreams that we had now they are dead and gone

The promises we made have all been broken

If I could run away

Hide away

Forget the way I feel

But your memory keeps haunting me

Convincing me it's real

Now you're not here

Now you're not here

In my arms

In my life

Lovin' you, is just a memory

Now you're not here

Now you're not here

With me now, in my arms, in my mind, in my life
