

Sylvan, Signed Away

I gave you truth you gave me nothing
I broke and you took advantage of it
I wrote the lines you never read them with me
Just spoke inside insidiously

I knew my fortune but believed my lies
A million reasons just to prove me right
I built it with you but without a doubt
You where never with me, now I found it out

I signed my life away
And spilled the ink of trust I should have saved
I offered all my tears I used to hide
To blur the lines of truth I kept inside

If you'd asked for rainbows would have brought them here
For in brightest colors you would have shone for me
And a thousand treasures would have searched for all
But the colors darkened they will shine no more and I write it down inside inside and I fight and I turn the page of sighs and I feel it here tonight tonight and I cried and I signed off my life