

Sylvan, Timeless Traces

When I said I had no doubts while I tried to comfort you - did I tell you that I lied ?
When I gave you confidence though I feared the things I knew only secretly I cried
Even when I felt so sad always tried to keep my smile still don't know if I was right
But though my force was fading away, even my tears they dried out some day ... finally I realised

And you gave me reasons forever
Did you feel the faith you brought into my life
And your timeless traces won't shatter
When you see the glint of hope deep in my eyes

Leave your worries behind, leave your sorrows behind you
Leave your worries behind, leave those troubles behind with a feeling of quiet

Did you ever realise that I couldn't show my care when I held your hand in mine
Far to near the consequence that I might have broken down I assure you that I tried
Still I have those words in mind, still remember all my tears when we had to say goodbye
But all my pain has faded away, even my sorrows dried out some day ... in the end I realised

And you gave me reasons forever
Did you feel the faith you brought into my life
And your timeless traces won't shatter
When you see the glint of hope deep in my eyes