

Symphony In Peril, Seduction By Design

This methodology has tied you down.

Walking the fine line.

This line has become your threshold,

a strategic inflection point between the truth and religious entanglement.

Discernment has been lost in translation due to pride's open door.

What is left is a scarred tomorrow due to forgotten yesterday.

Your days are no longer lined with the scarlet thread.

This garment's structure has been woven by a new manmade routine,
leaving the truth behind.

When will you die?