

Tad Dreis, Running After You

Running after you exhausts me
I wish you would just turn around
With every step I take, I lose more ground
'Cause you're running at the speed of sound

Any other time I listen
My friends they have so much to say
But when you come around, they run away
So I'm running after you today

Wherever you are going to
I'll be right behind
And if I'm meant to take a hint
I hope that you won't mind

'Cause running after you've forgotten
Is never quite the same, you see
And if it's the same to you, I'd rather be Running after you than free

I'd rather be running after you than free
