

Tad Morose, Narrow Minded

Right across the border to reality
I see somethings that I never seen before Like the sky changing colors
I can see, open up my eyes
Yes I believe my mind

Do things my way from now on
And I won't be so narrow minded anymore Open up my mind and I see life as it is Feeling the nature of mankind filling my soul

Where time has no meaning and life is too short Then why can't we see the life as it is?

All the things around us we seem to take for granted
The way that we are heading is not the way of life Mother earth is crying for the things that we have done
But as long as there are people there's always hope for us

Where time has no meaning
and life is too short
Then why can't we see
the life as it is?

Where time has no meaning
and life is too short
Then why can't we see
the life as it is?

Where time has no meaning
and life is too short
Then why can't we see
the life as it is?
