

Tantric, Relentless

Here we are alone again
Isn't that what you wanted my friend
But it's hard to believe

And many things we overcame
Do you want to let it slip away
Don't make a mistake

We must return to another day
With the courage to cross, you know we must fight
It's for more than ourselves

Something tells me I'm not alone
It seems as though we've lost control of
Everything that we have fought for
I wish that I could be so much more

Something tells me I'm not alone
It seems as though we've lost control of
Everything that we have fought for
I wish that I could give so much more

You bring me hope you bring me strength
With all of this there's more than some think
And we've done it before

We must return to yesterday
To remember how it used to be
Can we finally move along

Something tells me I'm not alone
It seems as though we've lost control of
Everything that we have fought for
I wish that I could be so much more

Something tells me I'm not alone
It seems as though we've lost control of
Everything that we have fought for
I wish that I could give so much more

Something tells me I'm not alone
It seems as though we've lost control of
Everything that we have fought for
I wish that I could be so much more

Something tells me I'm not alone
It seems as though we've lost control of
Everything that we have fought for
I wish that I could give so much more