

Tanya Tucker, Lovin' Somebody On A Rainy Night

WRITER DAVE LOGGINS

Oh there ain't nothing like
Lovin' somebody on a rainy, rainy night
Well the moon is changing faces
Playing hide and seek with the clouds
They're arranging nature's symphony
As the concert call goes out
Bringing lovers close together
To hear a tin roof lullaby
Cause there ain't nothing
Like loving somebody on a rainy, rainy night
There's an age old lover's anthem
In each celestial waterfall
It's a song that can't be sung
But can be heard by one and all
With that sweet romantic melodies
Descended from the sky
Oh there ain't nothing like
Lovin' somebody on a rainy, rainy night
When the sky it seems like it's falling
And the world is growing dim
Take yourself and your lover and go on in
Just let it rain
Oh there ain't nothing like
Lovin' somebody on a rainy, rainy night
When the sky it seems like it's falling
And the world is growing dim
Take yourself and your lover and go on in
Just let it rain
Oh there ain't nothing like
Lovin' somebody on a rainy, rainy night
