

Tanya Tucker, What It Did To Me

I saw you tonight,
In her arms so tight.
I watched as she held you tenderly.
You say when she held you
It did nothing to you,
But ohh what it did to me.

□

You say when she kissed you,
You didn't feel a thing,
Well I felt enough for all three.
You want me to believe,
It did nothing to you,
But ohh what it did to me.

And I felt the warm tears roll slowly down my face.
As I watched another slowly take my place.

And now it's all over,
You want me to forget.
And pretend that things are like they used to be.
That it was just a kiss
That did nothing to you,
But ohh what it did to me.

You want me to believe
It did nothing to you,
But ohh what it did to me, to me.
