

Tea For Two, Remember Jermaine

(S. Weber/M. Schumpelt/J.O. Soerup) resting in the middle of nowhere, wondering how to begin I am lost between visions of yesterday, between now and then I'm getting back to where I started, I know that I'm alone again back where I started, remember Jermaine I won't cry in case you hurt me

I won't smile in case you're leaving me where is our tomorrow, where are the good times we had tell me 'bout the truth, oh, please remember Jermaine I'm standing in the middle of nowhere wondering how should I begin lost between wishes of yesterday- between now and then I'm getting back to where I started for now I'm alone again back to where I started, oh remember Jermaine can't you see those bloody teardrops can't you see the people getting drowned can't you see me restraining my tears It is like falling down - can't you give, can't you believe, can't you just go away I won't cry in case you hurt me
I won't smile in case you're leaving me yes, I know that I wouldn't fall, oh, I'd like to go on won't you still remember, can you remember the words you told me and the things we did the things we laughed about, it could be real have I told you any lie, can you still remember Jermaine I won't cry, I won't smile, I will just believe in you remember Jermaine well, I said I'll always believe in you, well, I said I'll always trust you can't you understand that I have to go my way - oh, please remember Jermaine
